Sermons by Telephone Are Now an Accomplished Fact.

Interesting Experiments Recently Made in Philadelphia. Pastor Conwell Will be Heard by Thousands Who do Not See Him. An English Precedent.

And now the telephone is to be utilized as an accessory to the pulpit.

A series of highly interesting experi ments were made a few days ago in Philadelphia, which, when carried to their natural conclusions, will make it possible, and even easy, for any popular pulpit orator to enlarge the numerical limit of his anditors almost indefinite-1v. The speaker, whose audience is now limited to the seating capacity of his church, may simultaneously address his words of exhortation to two, three or even a dozen such congregations, gathered'in separate auditoriums, and that, too, without any extra exertion or inconwenience on his part, provided he pos sesses the first requisite of the successful orator-good speaking power and distingt enunciation.

The experiments were made in Philadelphia's famous Baptist edifice known as the Temple. It is one of the largest church structures in America, greater than any of the theernacles which Dr. Palmage has made famous, larger in its ters and opera houses of the world. And yet it is no longer large enough.

The individual members of this great Temple flock were brought face to face with the ominous fact that they were rapidly outgrowing their sheepfold one Eriday right about a month ago when the Rev. Russell H. Conwell, their pastor, in his characteristically blunt way, said to them: "When 113 more persons have associated themselves as members of this church every seat in the upper temple will be occupied by a Christian. If every one of these Christians attends service and occupies his or her seat, then there will be no further scope here for evangelical work. What shall we do? Think it out. Think it out!"

What Pastor Couwell alluded to as the upper temple is the main anditorium, in which the preaching services are held. Every Sunday night and morning for years it has been crowded. But there is a lower temple, toe—a yast, airy room beneath the other—and for many months overflow meetings have been regularly held there. There is also a commodious forum in the Temple college building immediately adjoining the Temple.

But the trouble is that Mr. Conwell is a popular speaker, and those who throng the Temple doors go there ex-pecting to hear him.

When Pastor Conwell said, "Think it out, think it out," therefore, everybody knew just what he meant. He wanted some problem thought out the solution of which would make it possible for the congregations in the upper temple, the lower temple and the college forum to practically attend the same service and all at once to be within the sound of

There is a young man in the church who has quite a reputation as a joker. He said sententiously, "Why not run a speaking tube from the upper to the lower temple?" Those who heard this suggestion

Amose who heard this suggestion thought it was culy a joke, and some of the young women snickered. "But," as one of the more serious minded members said, "that remark set us to thinking, and now we have thought it out."

A competent electrician was called in consultation, and he undertook to super-intend the task of uniting the three auditoriums so as to achieve the desired result. He was confident of success, and he had good enough precedent in England and Europe if not in America. He told the Temple people how a similar problem had been solved not long ago in Birmingham, England, and The Temple Magazine published this inter-esting account of it as a stimulus to its own readers:

'Christ church, Birmingham, England, is a large edifice, and is blessed with a rector who is not only a beautiful and exemplary Christian character, Thousands come regularly every Sunday to listen to him. He was struck with the unhappy lot of the multitude of poor suffering creatures who were compelled to lie day after day in the hospital he made up his mind to brighten their dark path.

"After consulting with several emi-ment electricians, he gave orders, at his own expense, for a loud speaking tele-phone connection to be made between Christ church and the principal hospital in the city. After several experiments it worked successfully, and further con-tracts were placed with the electricians to connect other hospitals with the church. Then the jail was put in the cir-cuit, and eventually seven large cities at a distance ranging between 100 and 250 miles heard the whole service at Christ church simultanously.

"That is the greatest regular telephone circuit in connection with the Christian church, that we know of. The ordinary listener in Canon's own church never thinks for a moment that any tele-phones are in the building. All that can be seen are a few metal disks, if you know where to look for them. The speaker stands as other speakers, makes for more effort than they do and puts himself to no inconvenience Whatever." For Conveil and the Rev. De. Garrier

A. Feliz, the associate pastor, stationed themselves in the lower temple and delivered brief addresses in their ordinary speaking tone. They were distinctly heard and listened to with interest by the auditors in the upper temple and the college forum. It is not unlikely that the talephone system may be extended ultimately to include in its circuit sev-eral institutions, and the possible further ramifications of such a system appear to be almost limitless.—New York Herald.

WAITING FOR HETTY TO DIE.

The Howland Brothers Expect a Fortune When Mrs. Green Expires

Two gray haired men in California would probably be able to restrain their grief should Hetty Green, the woman with many millions, but no home, conclude to end her earthly career. One of them, Captain John Howland, is a night watchman on a city dock in San Fran-cisco, and the other, Jothum Howland, is a Napa farmer. Noither of the broth-ers is well supplied with this world's goods, but according to their story they have "great expectations." Mrs. Green's father, Edmund Mott Robinson, the ship chandler of New Bedford, Mass., left her a great many millions, and the How-land brothers claim that $3,000,000 was left in trust for them. The money is to be paid to them after Mrs. Green's death. The Howland brothers were nephews of Mrs. Green's father, and it is said that he remembered them in his will be-

JOTRAM HOWLAND, JOHN HOWLAND. cause of the fact that his father-in-law, Gideon Nowland, assisted him materially in making his first success in life. His gratitude has not thus far improved the condition of the Howlands. By the terms of the will Mrs. Green is unable to cut them off, but as the money does not revert to them until she joins the great majority they may both die without ever seeing a cent of it. Thus far Mrs. Green has succeeded admirably in increasing their fortune for them, but she has also insisted in keeping every mill of the sum in her own hands,

The brothers left their New England home in 1849, and Jotham became a farmer, while John spent many years on the sea as master of a whaler. Since Mrs. Green became the richest woman in America she has ignored the existence of the California residuary legatees.

PREACHES ADAMLIKE.

Not Even a Fig Leaf on the Fellowers of Rev. John Morrow.

The Rev. C. W. Savidge, one of the cest known ministers in Omaha, makes startling charges against the Rev. J. Morrow of Pittsburg. He became acquainted with Morrow some years ago, while that gentleman was a minister of the Presbyterian church, and when Morrow went to Omaha received him kindly. Strange stories came to his ears con cerning Morrow's doings and religious teachings, and Savidge started an inves-tigation. The reports were to the effect that Morrow was preaching that the proper way to worship God was in a state of absolute nudity.

Savidge says he first went to Morrow and asked him as to the truth of the stories, and that he admitted that he had not only preached such a doctrine, but that it had actually been practiced by his congregation. He justified his action by passages from the Bible—viz: II Samuel vi, 20; I Samuel xix, 24, and Isaiah xx, 8.—New York Recorder.

As soon as a hand organ grinder started a tune the other day in Huntingdon, Pa., a swarm of 5,000 bees made a bee line for his organ and lit on it. The music appeared to have made them good natured, for they stnng no while they were being put back into their hive - New York Times.
